About South Australia

Image: SATC

The city of Adelaide is a nimble city with a big backyard. There is an abundance of things to see, do and immerse yourself in. Consistently rated one of the top ten most livable cities in the world, Adelaide will allow you to explore creative art and cultural scenes while being surrounded by rich history and heritage.

The city has an enviable food and dining scene, which can be experienced through a network of buzzing laneways, bars, restaurants and pubs at every corner. With public art murals dotted along the streets, Adelaide is an extremely vibrant place to be. For lovers of fresh produce, a visit to the Adelaide Central Market is a must. The thriving food and culture hub dates back to 1869 and showcases some of the delicious food South Australia is famous for.

Surrounding the city are several of the world's best wine regions - the Barossa, Adelaide Hills and McLaren Vale.

Encompassing several unique towns along the way, these wine regions are where picturesque landscapes, natural wonders and world class produce meet. There are an array of cellar doors within each region, making it easy to taste your way around. Many wineries have been passed down through generations and contain some of the oldest vines in the world, providing guests a unique experience.

Regions including the Adelaide Hills are home to a diverse range of native wildlife, cultural heritage and incredible views. South Australia has an abundance of beautiful wildlife such as kangaroos and koalas, and the state is one of the best places to get up close with native fauna.

South Australia boasts an enviable coastline with stretches of pristine sand and clear sparkling water. With many of the beachside locations offering popular bars, cafes and shops, step off of the sand and into a buzzing atmosphere, day or night.
