SESSION 2: Case Law Review

Join the Norman Waterhouse Local Government Employment, Governance and Regulatory Services Teams as we explore recent significant and important developments in case law impacting on how employment, governance and regulatory professionals undertake their roles.

There has been substantial case law development in this area over the last twelve months, and particular focus will be given to a variety of cases concerning:

- work health and safety;
- elected member roles and functions;
- elected member behavioural management;
- administrative law decision making; and
- regulatory enforcement obligations

Presented by: Principals Sathish Dasan, Paul Kelly, Felice D'Agostino, Dale Mazzachi and Special Counsel Chris Alexandrides

SESSION 1: Keynote speaker

Keynote speaker to be announced. All streams to merge in Hall L for this session.

SESSION 2: Major project structuring - tenure, contracts and financing

This session will explore options for structuring major projects involving land, and how structuring choices set the trajectory for the project. It will examine different tenure options and key contractual frameworks that can be used to allocate rights and obligations between the parties. It will also touch on how tenure and contractual arrangements can interact with financing of a project, security, step in rights, and ongoing accounting treatments.

Throughout, the seminar will highlight the advantages and disadvantages of alternative structures and demonstrate how, in practice, every element of a major project flows from the initial structuring decisions.

Presented by: Principal Yari McCall

SESSION 3: Strategic assets and infrastructure (water + wastewater + energy + waste) - procurement and contract management tactics

As growth pressures intensify across South Australia, essential services and infrastructure delivery are increasingly becoming a critical constraint on housing, investment and regional development. Communities, developers and industry are looking to councils to do more than regulate growth, they are looking to the local government sector to step up and help unlock it.

This session will explore the evolving role of local government in coordinating and facilitating strategic infrastructure outcomes across the water, wastewater, energy and waste sectors. We will examine the growing role councils are playing in infrastructure planning and growth, emerging delivery models, regional collaboration approaches, changing market conditions, and associated governance and regulatory issues faced by councils.

Presented by: Principal Kane Robson and Associate James Last

SESSION 4: Commercial disputes - current landscape and lessons

Join our Commercial Dispute Resolution team as we examine the current commercial dispute landscape affecting local government and explore key lessons arising from recent matters and developments.

This session will provide practical insights into common issues facing councils, approaches to managing disputes effectively, and broader risk management considerations for local government.

Presented by: Principal Vas Marinou and Associates Chelsea Chieng & James Norris

SESSION 5: Major projects, strategic infrastructure, and commercial disputes - common threads, opportunities and challenges Q&A

With over 30 years' experience in commercial projects within the local government sector, Sean Keenihan has lived through multiple cycles of growth, reform and renewal. Change, adaptation and innovation are the only constants. In this session, Sean will take the Chair to draw together the key themes and threads from the day's discussions, and facilitate a wide-ranging, practical and interactive Q&A to conclude this stream.

Presented by: Principal Sean Keenihan

SESSION 6: Concluding Remarks
